COST OF FILLING MARKET BASKET

Increased Expense Incurred in Purchasing for Ordinary Family "Over Sunday."

PRICES ARE COMPARED WITH THOSE OF YEAR AGO

Meats, Groceries, Vegetables and Most Other Staples Quoted at Higher Figures.

A Saturday night's marketing for an ordinary household, judging from an investigation made in Center market Saturday night by a reporter for The Star, costs just about $1.50 more now—about what it did a year ago.

Dealers in meats, groceries, vegetables and other food staples last night showed themselves very much interested in a trip among their stalls made by the reporter for the purpose of filling a theoretical basket with the Saturday night marketing of an ordinary household, and to compare the cost of such a basket now with the prices paid a year ago.

They fully substantiated the assertions so awesomely made throughout the city lately—since there has been so much talk of the possibility of raising the prices of bread, milk and other foods—to the effect that "everything has gone up." Everything in the way of food, indeed, has "gone up"—in the case of fish the prices have just doubled.

Contents of the "Basket."

This theoretical market basket was filled with a ham for Sunday dinner, vegetables, a soup bone, the materials for a salad and a pineapple and oranges for a dessert. Bacon and eggs were bought for breakfast this morning and chipped beef to be creamed and served on toast for Monday morning breakfast. The ham cost 2 cents a pound more—24 cents—than it did a year ago; when it was 22 cents, a difference on a ten-pound ham of 20 cents additional. The bacon cost 2 cents a pound more—40 cents—than it did a year ago. The chipped beef cost 10 cents a pound more—that is, 50 cents a pound now against 40 cents last year. A pound of lard, which cost 15 and 16 cents a pound last year, cost 20 cents, 4 cents a pound more. If shoulder had been wanted for breakfast it would have cost 35 cents a pound, instead of 30 cents last year. If shoulder had been wanted it would have cost 19 cents last night instead of the 17 cents which was paid a year ago.

"It is a curious fact, too," one dealer in smoked meats said, "that more hogs have been slaughtered this year than last. The records prove that; but, the fact is, we are shipping more meat to the soldiers in Europe than we did a year ago."

Suppose fish had been wanted for breakfast. Bluefish and trout are hard to obtain. Instead of the 12½ and 15 cents a pound paid for them a year ago one would have been obliged to pay 25 cents a pound.

"This month," one dealer said, "there is generally a run of bluefish, and they should be plentiful. There has been no run and they are very scarce." This dealer exhibited a letter from an out-of-town wholesale fish dealer offering frozen (cold storage) fish, and declaring that there are very few fish in storage.

If a leg of lamb had been wanted for today's dinner the customer would have been obliged to pay 5 cents a pound more for it than was paid last year. If a rib roast of beef had been wanted it would have cost for the best cut 28 cents a pound, against 25 cents a year ago. At this stall it was remarked that the wholesale prices of all meats are from 35 to 50 per cent higher than they were a year ago. The reporter nearly fainted when he was told that there has been no increase in the price of liver. That was the only link in the market, apparently, on which there had been no advance in price. It may be unwise to publish the fact, as liver has probably been overlooked by some one, and the price will probably be put up as soon as attention is drawn to it.

Winter Prices for Butter and Eggs.

Butter and eggs? Well, we are paying winter prices now, 40 cents a dozen and 40 cents a pound, way ahead of time. About this time last year the winter prices had not gone into effect. In August and September we are usually told that the pastures have dried up and the cows can't get enough grass and that is why there is not enough milk and why there is a consequent scarcity of butter. But this year as one dealer remarked last night, there has been a wet season and the pastures have not dried up—yet.

As to vegetables, green corn was selling last night at 35 cents a dozen, as against a price of 20 cents a dozen this time a year ago. One vegetable dealer said that all vegetables are bringing 50 per cent more wholesale than they were a year ago. Lettuce was shown in the market for as high as 15 cents a head.

They say the price of bread has not been raised, but, as every one knows, the weight of bread is down.

WHITE LAKE REID CAMP BURNS.

Many Valuable Trophies Destroyed by Fire in Adirondacks.

PAUL SMITH, N. Y., September 18.—Miss Margaret Nichola, daughter of the Rev. William F. Nichola, Episcopal bishop of San Francisco, Cal., and two other young women companions, the Misses Augusta Bishop and Helen Scarth of New York, had narrow escapes on upper St. Regis Lake, near here, yesterday, when a log cabin in which they were sleeping caught fire and burned to the ground.

The cabin was one of a group comprising the Wild Air summer camp of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, widow of the late ambassador to Great Britain.

Mrs. Reid, Mrs. Hamilton McKay Twombly of New York and Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Mills Reid were sleeping in another cabin. They were aroused by the young women in time to save most of their belongings before the fire spread and destroyed their house and two others.

Many valuable trophies, including elk, moose and buffalo heads, collected by the late Mr. Reid and prized by him, were burned.
